After getting the price list all written up, it seemed like a cold turkey to me.

The glads at the Los Angeles County Fair this year were the worst ones that I ever exhibited due to the extreme heat just before Fair time.

The family is doing fine. The twins are now walking everywhere - into everything. Unless you have had twins you will never know.

Jerald became an Eagle scout last week, so we are proud of him. Bonnie is doing well with her piano. The twins mother is holding up better than could be expected. I don't see how she does everything and being relief society president at Church too. Yours truly should be two people most of the time.

As ever,
W. I. MASON

Due to an accident last spring at planting time, I only planted half as many bulbs as usual. For that reason, I am only issuing this price list instead of a regular catalog.

The bulb quality this year is better than usual, but I doubt if I will have enough to go around. I am not putting out a wholesale list. However, if you would like a quantity of any certain variety, please write and I may have enough to quote you a wholesale price. Order early so that you can get what you want.

HINTS ON GLADIOLUS GROWING

PRE-PLANTING TREATMENT

All bulbs should be dipped before planting as a precaution against fungus diseases. I have found Natraphene to give the best results as a dip. Dissolve one tablet in 2½ gallons of water and soak your bulbs for approximately 10 days. On a long soaking the bulb absorbs the solution and any diseases are killed from the inside out. If you have a few bulbs of many varieties, you can cut cardboard milk cartons in half and soak your different varieties in different cartons.

Send 15c for one Natraphene tablet, 2 for 25c, or 10 for $1.00.

You can use 1½ tablespoonfuls of Lysol per gallon of water and soak your bulbs for 3 hours and be sure to plant immediately afterwards. I have found the Lysol treatment to be inferior to Natraphene.

PLANTING

Glads prefer full sun but will do well if they can get 4 hours or more sunshine a day. Plant your bulbs in rows, spacing them approximately 4 inches apart and approximately 4 inches deep. Larger bulbs deeper and smaller bulbs a little shallower. If planting them in beds make them approximately 8 inches apart in all directions. They are easier to cultivate if planted in rows. As they grow hill up to them so that they will be less apt to fall over when blooming.

WATERING AND CULTIVATING

Water a lot. Glads like lots of water and good drainage. For sandy soil, water every three days (every day if it gets over 100 degrees hot)—real heavy soil every 10 days. Give a good soaking each time.

CUTTING BLOOMS

When cutting your glads be sure to leave at least 4 leaves on the plant. Without the leaves a new bulb cannot be developed. You can pick your glads any time after the first floret is ready to open.

DIGGING

You do not have to wait until the leaves get dry to dig. You can dig six weeks after they finish blooming.

STORING BULBS

After your bulbs are dug let them dry for two to four weeks depending on the temperature. Do not dry in the sun if the temperature goes over 85 degrees. In about three weeks clean off the roots and the old bulb. Separate the bulblets. Dust with 5% DDT and store them where they will keep dry—the drier the better. Do not put them over 2½ inches deep in boxes though.

FERTILIZER

Be sure to keep fertilizer away from the bulbs. A LITTLE well rotted manure worked into the soil at least 6 months before planting your bulbs is o.k. You can use a little bone meal under the bulbs, providing you put at least 1½ inches of dirt over the bone meal before you plant. Keep fertilizer away from your bulbs, though, and use it very sparingly. I don't use any on my glads. A light side dressing may be beneficial if applied to the center of the row and away from the bulbs. Side dress, if you insist on doing this, when your glads get their fifth leaf. I don't, though. As glads like acid soil a handful of peat moss around each bulb should be beneficial, especially if you live in California or where your soil or water is inclined to be alkaline. For the third time—keep fertilizer away from the bulbs.

Not blooming properly.

Thrips—In warm weather dust or spray with 5% DDT, Chlordane or Lindane every 10 days. Thrips are very small and hard to see. Buds look sunburned and leaves get silvery streaks in them.

AT LAST..... A COMPLETE FERTILIZER is on the market!

One that not only has Nitrogen, Phosphorus and Potash....it also has Calcium, Magnesium, Sulphur, Iron, Manganese, Copper, Zink, Boron, and Molybdenum. All of these in the correct proportion for plants' needs. This fertilizer is CALUNITE. It not only is a complete fertilizer, but it conditions soil as well -- flowers have better color, fruit has better color as well as better flavor -- vegetables have better flavor, will keep better and are mineral rich when fertilized with CALUNITE. CALUNITE actually makes your soil rich. It is a natural mineral and will not leach out of the soil -- the plants have to use it out.

You use less CALUNITE for better results -- use only 2 lbs. per 100 sq. ft. Shipped freight prepaid, as far south as San Jose, and north to Eureka, including Sacramento Valley.

One 80-lb. sack CALUNITE	$5.95
Two 80-lb. sacks "	$10.95

Shipped freight prepaid to rest of California, Nevada and Oregon:

One 80-lb. sack CALUNITE	$6.49
Two 80-lb. sacks "	$11.95

Wonderful for lawns -- only fertilize once a year.
